DS	Session	Searching	Question Information	Level 1 Challenge 8

Problem Description:
Ram's first job is a out of university is for a student's book publisher. They are currently publishing a line of "intelligent libs" books, and they need you to check their print-copy. Write a program that will take a sentence with placeholders in it, and substitute in for those placeholders words from the lists of example words the publisher has provided.

Your goal will be to substitute the appropriate words into the sentence from the list of provided words TWICE (keeping track of the words you have used) where:

[N] = nouns
[AV] = adverbs
[V] = verbs
[AJ] = adjectives

Input Format:
Line one will always be the line with the story. The order of the Nouns, Adverbs, Verbs and Adjectives will always be the same. Input stops when it reaches the word END alone on a line. You are guaranteed to always have enough words to substitute into the sentence TWICE (not repeating any words). The number of words given under each section will be random.

Output Format:
Print the output in a separate lines contains, Always take the TOP-most UNUSED word from a group when substituting. Output the final sentences when all substitutions are done.
